Meet Beachcomber

Beachcomber is Margaritaville at Sea's new flagship: a roughly 102,000-ton, 892-foot ship carrying about 2,700 guests at double occupancy, making it far bigger than Paradise or Islander. Look for more than 15 new experiences, including Same Boat (a live-music venue created with Zac Brown), plus fan favorites like 5 o'Clock Somewhere, Cheeseburger in Paradise, License to Chill and the Hemisphere Dancer, along with multiple pools, a casino, a spa and a kids' club.

Getting to the port

Flying in

- Miami International (MIA) is about 20–25 minutes away in normal traffic.
- Fort Lauderdale (FLL) is about 40–60 minutes and often cheaper; plan for I-95 traffic.
- Fly in the day before. Miami traffic on a busy ship day is no joke.

Driving in

- PortMiami is on Dodge Island, reached by the Port Boulevard bridge or the PortMiami Tunnel from I-395/MacArthur Causeway.
- Saturdays and Sundays can bring a lot of ships into port at once, so give yourself extra time.
- Follow signs for Terminal C and drop bags with porters before parking.

Parking at PortMiami

Option	Rate	Good to know
Port garages/lots (incl. Garage C, D, F, G, Lot E)	$25 per day (overnight)	Run by PortMiami. Cash and major credit cards are accepted; debit cards are not.
Oversized (RVs, vans, trailers): Surface Lot E	$25 per space, per day	Two spaces cost $50 per day.
Off-site lots & park-and-cruise hotels	Varies	Often cheaper; most include a shuttle.

Chill tip: Disabled veterans with qualifying Florida plates park free at PortMiami. Free port shuttles run on cruise days.

Embarkation day, the easy way

- Expect an assigned arrival window about 3 weeks before sailing (suites and Priority guests board first, as on Paradise and Islander).
- Print luggage tags from Cruise Control and attach them at home.
- The final check-in cutoff for Miami will be on your boarding pass. Treat it as a hard deadline.

Before you sail: stay & play in Miami

- Bayside Marketplace is right across from the port: boat tours, shops and waterfront bars.
- South Beach for Art Deco strolls, Ocean Drive and a beach morning.
- Wynwood Walls for murals and great food.
- Little Havana's Calle Ocho for Cuban coffee and cigars.

Port-of-call cheat sheet

San Juan, Puerto Rico

Wander colorful Old San Juan, tour El Morro and save room for mofongo.

Bonaire is a diver's and snorkeler's dream. In Curaçao, explore Willemstad's colorful waterfront and the floating bridge.
